Clarksville native becomes a Combat Medic and EMT

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. – Pfc. LaSean Brown graduated from the Army’s Infantry Basic Combat Training and the U.S. Army Combat Medic Specialist Course, at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas, July 15, 2021.

During the technical 26-week program, Brown learned to administer medical care in the field, serve as a first responder for triage, illnesses and injuries, and render first aid in both combat and humanitarian situations. Brown also certified as a national Emergency Medical Technician. He is now assigned to the 208th Area Support Medical Company, headquartered in Smyrna.

Brown is a graduate of Northeast High School and is following in the footsteps of his parents who both serve in the U.S. Army. He plans on using the Guard’s education benefits to attend medical school in the future.
